Career Inspiration the focus for young regional trainees

Geoff Brock August 3, 2016

Young trainees from the councils of the Flinders Ranges, Clare & Gilbert Valleys, Mount Remarkable, Goyder, Port Pirie and Northern Areas are today attending a networking and professional development event – as part of the State Government's $2 million Regional Youth Traineeship Program.

The 'Welcome to Local Government Induction' event in Jamestown is one of a series around the State designed specifically for program trainees and their supervisors.

Participants today are meeting face-to-face with other trainees from the region, undertaking professional development and hearing from local role models.

Ashleigh Stiling, Operations Shift Coordinator at Harsco Metals and Minerals (Whyalla) and 2015 South Australian Telstra Young Business Woman of the Year, and Luke Ellery, Production Manager at Kelly Engineering (Booleroo), will share their career journey experiences with trainees.

Background

The Regional Youth Traineeship Program is a $2 million Regional Development initiative through the Jobs Accelerator Fund, delivered on behalf of the State Government by the Local Government Association.

The 57 trainees from across South Australia are young people aged between 17 and 24 living in the regions who were either unemployed or didn't have a full time job.

Participants benefit from tailored training and work plans, so when they complete their two year traineeships they'll be ready to take advantage of further employment opportunities.

The program has been designed to encourage the regional local governing bodies to continue employing the trainees after the two funded years.

Strong regions mean a strong South Australia, and the Regional Youth Traineeship Program is a great example of the different levels of government working together to create vibrant, sustainable regional communities with a skilled workforce.

These induction workshops are providing a wonderful opportunity for trainees supported by the program to build their knowledge and confidence for successful career opportunities in the future.

The workshops are also an ideal opportunity for each region to share and celebrate the successes of their own young people.

Today's event in Port Augusta brings together trainees from the Port Augusta City Council, the District Council of Coober Pedy, the municipal Council of Roxby Downs, the Corporation of the City of Whyalla and the Outback Communities Authority, hosted by the Port Augusta City Council.

The theme of the workshops is 'educate, inspire, inform, network and share', and the day builds on what the trainees have already gained from council workplace inductions, as well as offering ideas and guidance on career development.
